MEMORANDUM TO: [REDACTED]

SUBJECT: [REDACTED]

25X1A

I am returning to you herewith the growing file on [REDACTED]. As you will recall from our conversation the other day, an earnest effort has been made to find for Mr. [REDACTED] a suitable position in the ORE organization. I am considerably interested in him because I think he does possess distinct possibilities for intelligence work of one kind or another.

However, it does just seem that there is nothing available at the present time into which he can conveniently be fitted, having in mind all of the personal characteristics which we have observed.

I think, therefore, that for the time being the best procedure will be for you to drop him an informal line to the effect that we have very minutely canvassed the situation in ORE and are sorry that we do not find an available opening in which, in our opinion, he would find himself happily fitted. At the same time we hope not to lose touch with him in the event that something of a more suitable nature might develop in the future.
